

OUR WYOMING COVENANT

My Four-Pillar Platform for the U.S. Senate

Today, I am formalizing the foundation of our campaign.

As a former soldier and Wyoming businessman, I believe our actions and our inactions shape the course of our lives. What we choose today helps define how our past is remembered and helps pave the road ahead. I am running to restore a simple truth: in a republic, the people are the only boss a Senator answers to.

My duty will be guided by the Constitution of the Great State of Wyoming, the Constitution of the United States, and the rule of law. Our campaign rests on a covenant with the people of Wyoming, a promise to serve with integrity, accountability, transparency, and courage.

Pillar One: Unity of Purpose (Stronger Together)

The United States has always been strongest when citizens work together toward a common goal. Every major success in our history came from shared effort, not division.

Our founding generation came together to create a Constitution strong enough to bind free people into one nation. The Union endured because Americans chose preservation over fracture. During World War II, our nation mobilized with common purpose and sacrifice. After natural disasters and national hardship, we have always shown the same truth: when we stand together, we are capable of extraordinary things.

Cooperation is not weakness. It is how free people solve hard problems.

Wyoming understands this better than most. We know the value of neighbors helping neighbors, communities stepping up, and people doing the work together. This pillar is a commitment to unity of purpose, not uniformity of opinion. We will not agree on every issue, but we can still stand together in defense of our future. When we stand together, we succeed. When we divide, we weaken ourselves.

Pillar Two: Modernizing Oversight

We cannot protect liberty if we do not know what government is doing. Oversight must be modern, transparent, and understandable.

- Plain English Bill Review: Congress pushes massive bills that few of us have time to read and even fewer can fully understand. I will use modern tools, including AI-driven analysis, to publish clear one-page impact statements for major votes so Wyoming families can see what is in a bill before I cast my vote.
 - Algorithmic Transparency: Big money and digital manipulation are threats to an informed electorate. I will support efforts to bring transparency to the systems that shape what information we see, so our civic discourse is not quietly distorted behind the scenes.
 - Digital Town Square: Representation should not be distant or mysterious. I will use technology to help gather the concerns, priorities, and constitutional questions of Wyoming citizens in real time so my votes remain grounded in the will of the people.

Pillar Three: Accountability and Term Limits

The system is broken in part because too many officeholders stay so long that public service becomes self-preservation.

- A Constitutional Amendment for Term Limits: This is one of my highest priorities. We need citizen-legislators who go to Washington to do a job, then come home and live under the laws we helped pass.
 - Dark Money Transparency: Sunlight remains the best disinfectant, and I support full transparency in political spending. When hidden money drives messaging and influence, we lose trust and we lose power.
 - Real Accountability: Public office is not ownership. It is stewardship. Every vote, every position, and every public act should be answerable to the people.

Pillar Four: The Constitution and the Rule of Law

The Constitution must once again become the guardrail of public service. Washington has become a place where party pressure, polling, and political convenience often override first principles. I am running to restore a higher standard.

- The Veto of Principle: If a bill lacks a clear constitutional foundation, I will vote no. It does not matter how popular the spending or the program may be in the moment. If it is not constitutional, it is not the federal government's business. I will defend the Tenth Amendment and protect the rights of Wyoming.
- Oath Over Office: My oath is to the Constitution, not to party, title, or ambition. If honoring that oath costs me the seat, I will leave with pride.
- Restoring Article I: Congress has spent decades surrendering its authority to unelected bureaucracies. That must end. Laws should be made by elected representatives accountable to the people, not by agencies writing rules that function as laws without direct consent.

- Judicial Integrity: I will support judges who respect the Constitution as written and uphold the rule of law faithfully. We need judges who interpret the law, not judges who invent it.

Our Closing Covenant

This is my Wyoming Covenant:

1. To stand stronger together.
2. To modernize oversight so we can see clearly.
3. To restore accountability to public service.
4. To defend the Constitution and the rule of law without fear or favor.

This campaign is not about power for its own sake. It is about service. It is about restoring trust. It is about making sure Wyoming has a Senator who remembers who is in charge.

The people are the boss. Always.
